Imagine: You can soar aloft for hours at a time by riding the same air currents as seagulls, hawks and eagles.

Hang gliding flight appeals to people of all ages and from all walks of life. It's fairly easy and inexpensive. It doesn't require much strength or stamina. Participants have often described it as "dream like," "floating," and even "stress releasing."

Hang gliders are silent machines because they don't need engines in order to fly. They fly instead on the energies of gravity and wind.

Come discover how much fun hang gliding can be!

A beginner enjoys a low "ground skimming" flight just a few feet above the "bunny hill".
